RED REQUESTS FOR BALLOTING DELAY OVERRIDDEN

Byrnes Scores Soviet Plan To Hold Up Vote On Six Non-Permanent Posts
FIVE COUNTRIES NAMED
Brazil, Egypt, Mexico, Poland Voted To Seats At Assembly Meeting

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The United Nations assembly today overrode a Russian request for a delay in balloting on six non-permanent members of the security council and elected Brazil, Egypt, Mexico, Poland and Holland to five of the seats.

The assembly failed on the second ballot to choose between Canada and Australia for the sixth seat, and the voting was adjourned. Australia received 27 votes and Canada 23 on the second ballot. A two-thirds majority is required. The voting on the security council membership followed a flurry of dissension in which the Soviet Union asked that the election be postponed. After hearing Secretary of State James F. Byrnes vigorously oppose the proposal, the assembly voted it down, 34 to 9.

Andrei Gromyko, acting head of the Soviet delegation, asked for the delay until next week to permit consultation with Moscow. Byrnes chided him for seeking to put off the election on an issue on which the voting schedule was known long in advance.

The British delegation supported Byrnes, New Zealand, and Czechoslovakia sided with Russia.

With 34 votes needed for election, the first ballot gave Brazil 47, Egypt 45, Mexico 45, Poland 49, and Holland 37. Canada, with 33 votes, was one short of the two-thirds majority. Australia got 28 votes. There were 50 valid ballots, one being declared invalid.

On the second ballot Australia got 27 votes and Canada 23—a loss of 10 for Canada and one for Australia, with one ballot again invalid.

The impasse produced the decision for an adjournment.

Gromyko requested the postponement until next week for consultation.

Byrnes immediately arose and said the postponement wasn't a matter of "convenience or inconvenience" to Russia. He said if such a postponement were granted Russia, it would set a precedent which would cripple the assembly's future work.

Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin of Britain supported Byrnes against the Russians. Terming the proposal a very dangerous precedent, Bevin urged that a vote be taken without lobbying.

"Nothing would be more harmful than maneuvering like in the old league of nations," Bevin said.

Premier Peter Fraser of New Zealand supported the Russian request. He asked the big powers to reconsider their proposed slates for the security council, which exclude Australia.

Famed Paratroopers March Down 5th Avenue In New York Parade

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—G. I. Joe saluted his hardwon European victory today, marching through mid-town Manhattan in baggy pants and polished jump boots.

WHITE HOUSE TO GO 'BROADWAY'

Auditorium For Conferences To Be Built In Capital Next Summer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Future White House news conferences may look like Broadway productions—even to the point of disappearing stage and banked spotlights.

And newsmen, accustomed for many years to crowding around the President's desk, will be able to cover the chief executive's conferences in the comfort of opera seats.

An auditorium seating 375 persons will be one of the main improvements in a $1,650,000 construction project which will get underway at the White House next Spring. It is here that future news conferences will be held.

The auditorium will be equipped with built-in flood and spot lights. A special elevator will lift the disappearing stage between the basement and main floors.

The auditorium also will be used by the President for his newsreels, radio and television appearances and broadcasts. Around the upper balcony will be glassed-in booths for radio commentators, photographers and television crews.

Lorenzo S. Winslow, White House architect, explained the purpose of the disappearing stage.

"It's to move heavy objects on and off stage," he said. "For instance, a piano."

The main part of the construction will be an addition to west wing executive offices. Despite the new east wing, the White House has become so crowded for space that many staff members now have their offices in other government buildings.

The addition will provide 15,000 feet of new office space. Offices now in the east wing will be moved to the new space. The east wing will be turned into a museum.

A casual passerby would never be aware of the changes. There will be no exterior alterations. (Continued on Page Two)

Adam Reub Will Leave Farm Land To City If Son Does Not Have Children

ESTATE VALUED AT $62,500

Floyd M. Reub, Tiffin, Is Executor Of Prominent Farmer's Estate

Berger hospital may receive more than $30,000 sometime in the future, according to the terms of a will admitted to probate in Pickaway county probate court.

The will of Adam Reub, Pickaway township farmer, states that real estate, valued at $32,600, shall go to the Circleville hospital in the event a son dies unsurvived by children.

The will leaves direct bequests of $600 to the United Brethren church of Circleville, $200 to the Salem Methodist church of Mead, and $200 to the trustees of Pleasant cemetery, near Kingston.

Real estate and personal property is left to the son, Floyd M. Reub, of Tiffin, who has been appointed executor. Upon the son's death, however, if no children survive him, the real estate, consisting of 236 acres of farming land in Pickaway township, is to go to the city of Circleville for the benefit of Berger hospital. KIMMEL SAYS HE AND GEN. SHORT 'SMEAR' VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel told the Navy's Pearl Harbor board he had been "forced to the conclusion" that he and Gen. Walter C. Short had been victims of a "deliberate smear campaign."

He described as "malicious lies" reports that he and his Army opposite at Hawaii were unfriendly and did not cooperate.

The admiral, who was relieved of his command 10 days after the attack, voiced his opinion in secret to the naval court of inquiry. It was disclosed in a document supplied to the congressional investigating committee.

The Navy board asked him to comment on reports that "your relationship with Gen. Short were not cordial, that you did not cooperate, that you had few conferences, and so forth."

"I believe every man, woman and child in the United States who can read, has read such statements," Kimmel replied. "I wish to state that all such statements are malicious lies."

"There is absolutely no basis for the rumors," he added, "and I am forced to the conclusion that this was part of a deliberate campaign to smear me and General Short."

The two "Pearl Harbor" commanders are scheduled to tell their stories publicly for the first time before the congressional committee when it resumes hearings next week.

ALL BUSINESSES IN ARGENTINA PLAN TO CLOSE

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 12.—A decision by Argentina's key industrialists to close all their businesses next week in a fight over salary increase and bonuses today foreshadowed a national commercial and industrial paralysis.

The powerful industrial union decided upon the shutdown during a series of sit-down strikes by shop clerks against the owners' failure to pay a Christmas bonus of one month's salary and salary increase of 10 to 25 per cent decreed by the government.

Department stores in Rosario were closed at noon Friday. The majority of Buenos Aires department stores were occupied by strikers. Many smaller businesses planned to join the big companies in their protest against the government's decree.

AFTER 18 YEARS OF WAR, PEACE COMES TO CHINA

American Troops Protest 'Lend-Leasing' To China; Calcutta Meeting Called

American troops in China added their voices to the worldwide demobilization protests today with a demand that the U. S. Army stop what they called its policy of "lend-lease" them to the Chinese government.

More than 400 soldiers, meeting in the Shanghai Y. M. C. A., addressed a letter to Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson claiming that unnecessarily large numbers of American troops were being kept in China.

The protest letter asserted that only a negligible number of American soldiers were being used for repatriation of Japanese. The recent sale of American equipment in west China to the Chungking government reduces the number of Americans needed to guard supplies, they claimed.

"We contend that the Army has no moral right to lend-lease us to the Chinese government," the letter said.

The Shanghai group denounced a statement by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China, that personnel for a military advisory group would be voluntary. They said it was "evasive, deceptive and does not reflect actual conditions in the China theater."

Wedemeyer recorded a speech for broadcast to his troops which appealed to their sense of fair play (Continued on Page Two)

VETERANS MAY WAIT IN LINE FOR EDUCATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Returned veterans, who have waited in line for almost everything else during their service careers, now may have to wait in line for an education.

The veterans administration said today that 41 per cent of its GI college students had packed into 38 big schools. The result, VA added, is that some schools are closing their doors to any more new students.

Meantime, the agency said, smaller liberal arts colleges report they have ample facilities for thousands of additional entrants.

VA surveyed conditions in 1,200 colleges with a total enrollment of 936,000, including more than 100,000 veterans studying under the GI bill of rights.

The agency added its prediction to that of many educators that by Fall most schools will be operating at capacity. Veterans as well as regular students may have to take their turns on waiting lists, it said.

The survey revealed "serious congestion and crowding" both in classrooms and living quarters. Most rejections so far, however, have resulted from the housing shortage.

EINSTEIN HITS BRITISH POLICY

Famed Scientist Believes UNO Should Control Palestine Area

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Professor Albert Einstein believes that Palestine never should become a Jewish "political state" but instead should be placed under the United Nations organization.

The famed scientist told the Anglo-American Palestine committee that the idea of establishing a Jewish political state in Palestine was "old fashioned" and "an imitation of the weaknesses of Europe."

"Europe is ill from nationalism," he said.

Einstein coupled his ideas on Palestine with a scathing denunciation of British colonial policy. He said the British "instigated" trouble in Palestine between Arabs and Jews as part of their policy "to divide and rule."

Palestine, he said, should be taken out of British hands and turned over to the administration of the UNO as soon as possible. The gentle-voiced scientist refused to budge from his stand despite aroused British cross-examination.

His charges led U. S. Chairman Joseph C. Hutcheson to observe humorously that Einstein sounded like an Irishman.

JAP PREMIER STARTS WORK OF RESHUFFLING

TOKYO, Jan. 12.—The ailing Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara began reorganization of his cabinet in his private residence today amid left-wing criticism at the Japanese government's failure to resign.

Cabinet members went to Shidehara's home during the morning, some to present their resignations, others to learn their roles in the stop-gap government that will exist until parliamentary elections are held.

Japanese newspaper reports said one member, home minister Zeniro Horikiri, definitely had been dropped from the cabinet because of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's directives ordering removal of officials who supported aggression. Three other ministers also will be forced out, the newspaper Yomiuri Hochi said.

There were unofficial reports that Shidehara will appeal to MacArthur for permission to retain some cabinet ministers who otherwise would be blacklisted on grounds that they are indispensable at present.

President Making Efforts To Prevent Steel Men From Walking Out

PHONE SEIZURE PLANNED

If Troubles Not Settled Government Expected To Take Over

A dim ray of hope was seen for ending the nationwide telephone tieup today but President Truman shifted deadlocked negotiations to the White House in a final and drastic attempt to avert a strike hovering over the steel industry.

With nearly half a million U. S. workers idle and another 1,500,000 threatening strike action, there were four major developments:

1. Federal seizure was reported probable if government officials were unsuccessful in persuading union representatives to call off a strike which has seriously affected telephone service across the country.

2. The President made an 11th hour effort to stave off a coast-to-coast strike of CIO steelworkers, whose 700,000 members are scheduled to walk off their jobs at one minute after midnight tomorrow.

3. Administration hopes for industrial peace received a severe jolt when the General Motors Corp. rejected a presidential fact-finding board's recommendations for a wage increase of 19.5 cents an hour to striking auto workers.

4. Union leaders went ahead with plans for nationwide work stoppages in the meat packing and electrical industries, involving an additional 535,000 workers.

Mr. Truman summoned Philip Murray, CIO president and head of the United Steel Workers, and Benjamin Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., to the White House after wage negotiations broke down last night in New York.

One highly-placed official, who asserted that the meeting "absolutely must not fail," expressed some optimism over the fact that both the company and union had retreated from their original positions on the controversial wage issue.

Murray and Fairless emerged from a conference last night and announced that the company's final offer as 15 cents and that the union had reduced its demand from 25 to 19½ cents. That left negotiators 4½ cents apart.

Meat—No progress was reported in mediation conferences between the nation's big meat packers and officials of the CIO Packinghouse Workers, set to strike Wednesday.

Electrical—CIO leaders went ahead with plans for a strike Tuesday of 200,000 workers employed by General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors' electric division.

Automotive—The executive board of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) meets in Detroit to consider a government fact-finding board's recommendation of a pay boost approximating 17.4 per cent to 175,000 striking General Motors workers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—G. I. Joe saluted his hardwon European victory today, marching through mid-town Manhattan in baggy pants and polished jump boots.

The accent was on the airborne as 13,000 veterans from four sky-fighting divisions converged on the big town, riding in trucks, trains and boats.

They were ready to shut the lid on World War II with a giant parade—one of the biggest in New York's history—scheduled to move down Fifth avenue at 1 p. m.

The marching men wore the double "AA" shoulder flash of the famous all American airborne division, but 5,000 of these sky-troops came from other outfits.

Some came from the tough 101st, which held the German flood around Bastogne. Others from the 17th, which left so many of its dead in the Ardennes snows. Still others came from the 13th airborne, which missed out on most of the fight.

At their head marched Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin, the boy-like 38-year-old commander of the 82nd. Fighting "Slim Jim," who made all four combat jumps with his division. He hailed out from Sicily, Italy, Normandy and Holland.

Only 12 of those who made all four jumps are still around. Many were killed, some moved on, and others are too badly hurt for marching.

But this was more than an air— (Continued on Page Two)

MORE MURDERS BY JAPS TOLD AT HOMMA TRIAL

MANILA, Jan. 12—The Japanese hospital for prisoners taken on Bataan became known as "the place where a man goes to die." William P. Cain of Columbia, S. C. testified today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma.

Clark said that the Japanese did not give the prisoners any medical aid and the death rate was high. Out of his group of 50 more than half died, he said.

Another witness, Preciliano Punzalan, a farmer in Pangasinan province, told of seeing Japanese bayonet four Americans tied to a tree. Another time, he said, he saw the Japanese force two Americans to embrace so that a Japanese soldier could "bag a double."

Chief Warrant Officer Frank J. Sehirat and Victoriano Alabado of the U. S. graves registration office said at least 175 bodies of American soldiers had been exhumed along the death march road. They said 75 had been identified.

Alabado, who is a Methodist minister, said he witnessed several instances of Japanese clubbing prisoners who attempted to drink from roadside wells. (Continued on Page Two)

19½ cents, the USW served notice it would settle for about the amount recommended for 175,000 striking General Motors employees.

The 22-man executive board of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) scheduled a meeting in Detroit today to consider the proposal, amounting to a pay boost of approximately 17.4 per cent. Recommendations will be submitted to a meeting of local unions tomorrow.

At the end of a three-hour meeting with company and telephone union officials in Washington last night, acting U. S. conciliator director Howard T. Colvin said, "There isn't any reason why the parties should not be able to compose their differences today."

On the other hand, he added, "whether they do is another matter."

If no settlement was reached by midnight, it was reported authoritatively that President Truman would order government seizure of the industry under his wartime powers.

Two breaks appeared yesterday in the tangled telephone communications situation. First, court orders were issued prohibiting picketing at telephone exchanges in Atlanta, Ga., Dallas, San Antonio and Houston, Tex., and in Oklahoma and Kansas. Secondly, 13,700 local switchboard operators in New York city voted to cross picket lines and return to work.

Western Electric company officials said that long distance service was reduced 90 per cent tele-typewriter service to 17,000 subscribers cut 92 per cent and local service partially or completely halted in 14 of the Bell system's 33 operating areas.

The striking telephone installation workers belong to one of 48 unions affiliated with the powerful, independent National Federation of Telephone Workers, which had asked its 263,000 members to respect picket lines.

The long-threatened steel strike got underway on a small scale last night. USW pickets surrounded the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's huge Lackawanna, N. Y., plant at 9 p. m. and the walkout was termed "nearly complete" when workers on the 11 p. m. shift refused to cross picket lines.

A union spokesman said the strike was authorized "when company officials refused to accept union offers of assistance in making plans for maintenance of service within the plant during the national strike."

In addition to the telephone strike, New York was virtually cut off from rapid communication with the rest of the country by a walkout of Western Union workers.

C. E. Wilson, president of the strike-bound General Motors empire, turned down the fact-finding board's recommendations on the grounds that "ability to pay" should not enter into wage negotiations.

The report, Wilson said, was unacceptable "in whole or in part" as a basis for settling the 53-day-old walkout.

"General Motors has rejected the unsound principle that a specific company should be forced to pay higher than competitive wages because of its financial ability," Wilson said.

PRESIDENT OUT, HAITIAN ARMY RULES REPUBLIC

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Jan. 12.—A military junta began organizing a new government today following the overthrow of President Elie Lescot.

The junta was reported planning to form a new cabinet today in an effort to restore order to the little west Indian republic.

An Army communique, issued after Lescot was forced to resign yesterday, promised the people that free elections would be called and that the military committee would "hand back the powers to whoever is elected." The junta immediately imposed censorship.

Lescot, who became president May 23, 1941, was a prisoner at his residence. Reports persisted that he would be permitted to leave secretly for exile.

It was learned that shortly before he was deposed he obtained approval of a $50,000 appropriation ostensibly for maintenance of the government palace.

Wild demonstrations continued in the streets last night as Haitians celebrated the ouster of the man whom many had called a dictator.

Lescot's fall came after nationwide protests against his government's closing of the student newspaper La Ruche and the forcible dispersal of student demonstrations that followed.

The armored forces displayed their Sherman tanks, and long-snouted tank destroyers, which chased the Krauts clear across Europe. The ground forces showed off their 105 millimeter howitzers, and their eight-inch self-propelled guns.

Tank transports, better known as "dragon wagons," rumbled along, flanked by hundreds of eager jeeps. Fifty transports, pulling gliders and escorted by 100 P-47 Thunderbolts, roared through the sky.

Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the Army's ground forces and one of America's top tank experts, was on hand—standing at 82nd St. and Fifth avenue—to take the salute.

Byrnes Scores Soviet Plan To Hold Up Vote On Six Non-Permanent Posts

Soviet Ukraine delegation, requested a roll call vote which defeated the Russian request, 34 to 9. Eight of the 51 members did not vote.

The assembly then proceeded to a secret vote for the six non-permanent security council members. There were no nominations from the floor. Each delegate merely wrote the names of six candidate nations on a ballot.

The Russians proposed postponing election of the six non-permanent security council members until next week so they could get instructions from Moscow.

The dispute arose last night in a private meeting of big five representatives. The Russians objected to some parts of the "American slate" of countries to be named to the 11-nation security council and the 18-nation economic and social council. Five of the security council seats belong to the big five, France, U. S., U. K., China and Russia.

At a meeting this morning, the American delegation decided against supporting the Russian request for a delay in the election scheduled for today.

Gromyko, speaking for Russia, objected to the American proposal that two Latin American nations—Brazil and Mexico—should get security council seats. The American slate also included Canada, Netherlands, Poland and Egypt.

The Russians preferred Norway to the Netherlands. They also objected to giving Latin American nations four of the 18 seats in the economic and social council.

Byrnes hinted that one of the big five should not delay the election in which the 46 other member nations were so interested.

REP. H. E. LOUIS TO RUN AGAIN

Pickaway Representative To Ohio Assembly Will Seek Re-Election

NEW HOLLAND, O. (Special)—
H. E. Louis, Pickaway county representative to the Ohio General Assembly, will seek a third term. Petitions will soon be circulated for the placing of his name upon the ballot for nomination, in the coming Republican primary, in May.

Rep. Louis made a statement of his intentions, in a more or less formal manner, when he was guest speaker before the January meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit to Arch Post 477, of New Holland, Mrs. Louis is president of Arch Post Unit.

Mr. Louis related highlights of the general assembly with relation to the war program, and discussed needed post-war legislation. He not only spoke of the current legal needs of the public generally, but was liberal in his account of the true aims and immediate demands for legislation as pertains to the veteran and his family.

In touching briefly on his intended candidacy, Rep. Louis explained that in his opinion a term of office in the legislature is distinctly different from that of most other public positions, inasmuch as the getting-acquainted stage is over and the gaining-experience period only getting under way, at the end of the two two-year terms. He voiced the experience of his first two terms as placing him in an especially capable position to carry on future work of the most benefit to Pickaway county generally.

The comparatively long and successful terms of both Congressman Clarence J. Brown, of the seventh district, and Congressman Mell G. Underwood, of this district, were thought of in this connection, in terms of beneficial experience and record.

Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the Army's ground forces and one of America's top tank experts, was on hand—standing at 82nd St. and Fifth avenue—to take the salute.

But the paratroopers weren't really marching on any general today. They didn't press their tunics and slick up their helmets just to strut their stuff for a lot of brass. Today they marched for the 3,000,000 who went to Europe, and for the 170,000 who'll never come back.

Men like Pfc. Joseph R. Giampa, 23, of Brooklyn, remember how it was over there. They'll never forget. Giampa was with the 501st parachute infantry regiment of the 101st division at Bastogne.

A German "screaming meemie" hit the building which sheltered Giampa.

"I remember them saying, 'hell, he's got a concussion,' Giampa said. "I remember everything looked double, and I told myself, 'Joe, you'll never get home.'"

Pfc. George M. Bruce, of New Castle, Ind., rode a 17th airborne division glider when it crossed the Rhine. The plane smashed into a fence trying to land.

"It knocked me right on my tail in the middle of a field," said Bruce. "I remember how funny I felt. I mean, it was funny until I looked up and saw that other guys were dying."

Lt. Col. Alfred W. Ireland, of Baltimore, Md., marched with the 82nd. Ireland is another one of those who made all four jumps. He won the silver star in Sicily—on his first try.

He injured his kneecap in landing, but he kept right on fighting. "It was my first fight," Ireland explained. "I just didn't know any better."

The 82nd division will be taken into the regular army. They were going to put it on the shelf, along with many others, but its soldiers begged that it be allowed to remain alive so the Army will let it stay.

On his right shoulder each 82nd dough wears the red and green Belgian fourragere, for fighting in the "bulge." On his left, he wears the Dutch military willems order—for services at Nijmegen.

There were newspaper reports that some of the sky soldiers, particularly in the 13th airborne, were bitter about being forced to march in the victory parade.

First Lieut. John D. Spalding, 23, of Pawtucket, R. I., who went to Europe with the 13th airborne but who never got to make a combat jump, said, "I don't think that's true of the majority of us."

Spalding said 13th airborne troopers realized they were being used as "fillers."

"But we're proud to be here," he said, "to represent those boys in the 82nd who never got back to march."

At the Central Buckeye Camp and Council meeting attended by Mrs. Beulah Madison, Marvone Howard and Mrs. J. P. Moffett, a report on the Pickaway Camp and Hospital committee was made by Mrs. Moffett.

She reported that the local committee had sent 305 filled stockings, valued at $1 or more each, a carton of wrapped gifts and a carton of extra pop corn balls to the veterans hospital at Chillicothe for Christmas.

One hundred and twenty yards of red cambric supplied the material from which representatives of the American Legion auxiliary, Girls Scouts, garden clubs and Red Cross cut and made 305 stockings. Each stocking contained a package of cigarettes, one pop corn ball, cookies, candy bar, hard candy and an orange. Two hundred and sixty-seven contained a kippy kit clothes brush, 140 leather cigarette cases, 50 tobacco pouches. A number of them contained toothbrushes, handkerchiefs, playing cards, books, etc.

A number of gifts were contributed by the Business and Professional Women club, the American Legion and individuals.

The appeal for pop corn was answered by several individuals, particularly Harold Watts, manager of the Grand theatre. The pop corn balls (372 of them) were all made by Mrs. C. O. Kern and Mr. and Mrs. John Kern, West Union street. Cookies were furnished by members of the Child Study club, Von Bora society of Trinity Lutheran church, DAR, WCTU, Girl Scouts and others. Members of the Child Study club, American Legion Red Cross and others helped fill the stockings.

Through the cooperation of Vaden Couch and Jay Clark, the stockings were taken to the hospital in a Ralston-Purina company truck.

Jones, assistant treasurer of the American Educational Press, Columbus, and past president of Central Ohio Council Boy Scouts, will be the speaker. Election of officers for the year will be held. All wishing to make reservations for the dinner should contact J. P. Moore at Container Corporation at once.

There will be a 50-50 dance Saturday night from 9 to 12 at the Eagles Home. It is open to the public.

Probate Judge Sterling Lamb has returned from Columbus where he attended the meeting of the Probate and Juvenile Judges association for the past three days.

Mrs. Paul Diltz Clifton, 229 Town street, is reported still in a "good" condition in Berger hospital where she is a patient as a result of injuries sustained in an accident at Court and Corwin streets Thursday. The hospital said that X-rays have been taken to determine whether her skull is fractured, but that no report has been made on the X-rays. The hospital also said that Mrs. Clifton slept well Friday night.

CHECK CHARGES PILED UP

Two more charges of check forgery have been filed against Fred Steinbrugg, in mayor's court. The charges were signed by Charles H. Smith for a $3 check, and by William Topolsky for a $2 check. Clarence Wolfe had previously signed charges against Steinbrugg for a $3 check.

By 1930 there were 23 miles of railroad track in the United States. By 1930 there were 429,883.

REP. H. E. LOUIS TO RUN AGAIN

Pickaway Representative To Ohio Assembly Will Seek Re-Election

NEW HOLLAND, O. (Special)—H. E. Louis, Pickaway county representative to the Ohio General Assembly, will seek a third term. Petitions will soon be circulated for the placing of his name upon the ballot for nomination, in the coming Republican primary, in May.

Rep. Louis made a statement of his intentions, in a more or less formal manner, when he was guest speaker before the January meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit to Arch Post 477, of New Holland. Mrs. Louis is president of Arch Post Unit.

Mr. Louis related highlights of the general assembly with relation to the war program, and discussed needed post-war legislation. He not only spoke of the current legal needs of the public generally, but was liberal in his account of the true aims and immediate demands for legislation as pertains to the veteran and his family.

In touching briefly on his intended candidacy, Rep. Louis explained that in his opinion a term of office in the legislature is distinctly different from that of most other public positions, inasmuch as the getting-acquainted stage is over and the gaining-experience period only getting under way, at the end of the two two-year terms. He voiced the experience of his first two terms as placing him in an especially capable position to carry on future work of the most benefit to Pickaway county generally.

The comparatively long and successful terms of both Congressman Clarence J. Brown, of the seventh district, and Congressman Mel G. Underwood, of this district, were thought of in this connection, in terms of beneficial experience and record.

and told them they were in China to do a job for their own country. A second Shanghai protest meeting named a committee to present a written list of complaints to the senatorial committee headed by Sen. James M. Mead, D. N. Y., which is in Shanghai investigating.

In India, a committee of soldiers called a second mass meeting at Calcutta for next Sunday afternoon.

A mass meeting called last night at Frankfurt, European headquarters, fizzled out when only 100 demonstrators appeared for what was intended to be the third successive night's protest. They were outnumbered by the guards posted around Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters. There seemed little disposition for another meeting.

Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, commander of the middle Pacific forces, announced in Honolulu that Army enlisted forces in the central and south Pacific who have 38 months of service or 48 points will start moving to replacement centers immediately for shipment home.

Male officers, except for those in the medical corps, will be eligible to go home and be discharged with 47 months of service or 80 points, Richardson said.

TWO QUARANTINES POSTED

Quarantines for two more scarlet fever cases have been posted by the county health office. Those ill with the disease are Ronald, 8-months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arledge of near Kingston in Pickaway county, and Shirley, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rudabaugh, of near Whistler.

NEW DIPHTHERIA CASE QUARANTINED IN CITY

Mrs. Ivah Smith, 25, of 166 Haywood avenue, has been quarantined in her home by the city health office for diphtheria. A positive report on her throat culture was received Saturday morning.

Health officials reported that Mrs. Smith had almost recovered from the disease, but that it would be necessary to take another culture and administer anti-toxin. The throat culture was taken by Dr. F. C. Schaeffer, who attended Mrs. Smith.

MAIL STILL IMPORTANT

IS there a let-down in the official efforts to get mail to men in the occupation forces? There are too many instances of letters reaching this country from men abroad, particularly from members of the fleet in Japanese and Philippine waters stressing their lack of news from home. In one case recently reported, cables sent from Washington to an ensign "out there" apprising him of his father's critical illness took five weeks for delivery. Another boy, an eighteen-year older away from home for the first time—and very far away Guam seemed—sends pathetically homesick letters to his Illinois mother, who writes regularly, asking if she has forgotten him. "It is November," he says, "and I have had no word since July."

Mail was considered the first line of morale while the fighting was going on, and the government did a good job, for the most part, getting letters to the boys. It seems no less important now to speed the mail sacks to occupation forces who, too, want to know that all is well at home.

KURDS HEARD FROM

NOW it is the Kurds who are striving for local home rule. These turbulent tribesmen who inhabit the mountains of Iraq, as well as of Iran and Turkey, want a state of their own. For the time being they are willing to settle for local autonomy.

If the old saying is true that he who would rule should first learn to obey, the Kurds would never get self-government. Ever since the days of ancient Babylonia, they have raided their neighbors in the plains and refused to obey any outside government. Xenophon, the Greek historian, encountered them when he led a Greek army home from Babylonia after its regular generals had been killed in 401 B. C. He described them as lawless and dangerous to strangers, as they still are.

In Iraq the Kurds have proportional representation in parliament, two cabinet members, several provincial governors, and schools conducted in their own language. This seems pretty generous treatment. They may, however, get further concessions if they stir up enough trouble. Though Iraq suspects the hidden hand of Russia, Kurdish self-expression is natural enough without this explanation. It's getting to be a little too easy to blame everything on Russia. It may be well occasionally to dig a little deeper into causes.

It seems as if man himself is moving steadily toward a gadget era when everything will be automatic.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Out and about on another January morning of higher-than-average temperature, but still far from the 70 that is my favorite level. Scraped frost from the car that had been forgotten and stood out all night. An old razor blade kept in the glove compartment does a good job there. Puffed into town and then went about afoot. A score of cheery greetings here and there a comment on world or national conditions. Nothing particularly new or startling, just further proof of the fact that Americans these days are puzzled and more than a little worried. A few months ago we all worried about the atomic bomb. Now, it is forgotten and attention turns on reconversion delays and their consequences. Not since the days of Abraham Lincoln has this country been so much in need of masterful leadership or so devoid of it. Have you noticed how certainly that little word "if" appears in all forecasts? My solution is no dumber than that of our big names. It is to give Washington to the politicians of both parties if they will only turn the rest of the land back to the Americans.

Watch for this: the dropping of its appeal by the water company. Which means that the plant will be taken over by the city, maybe before mid-Summer, and operated as a municipal utility.

His real name is William, but practically everyone calls him Bob. Few know the reason. He was known as Bill Murray when just a little fellow about 70 years ago. Then one day with a group of friends he taunted a drunk man whose first name was Robert and who was known as Bob. This Bob who could hardly walk turned on his tormentors, ran like a deer and caught young Bill. He really worked that kid over. Slapped him down, trampled and kicked him. Bill Murray did not get up, but "Bob" Murray did. His friends never let him forget the incident and from that day to this he is known by almost everyone as "Bob". That is really getting a nickname the hard way.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 12—A sedate presidential boomlette of Harold Stassen is recognized as being under way.

The 38-year-old Navy commander is starting out upon the path which Willkie trod, appearing on the quiz program of all sages (information please), making speeches around the country to educational organizations, rug manufacturers, etc.

Plainly he is heading to fill the Willkie vacuum, in a manner, by establishing a Republican leadership of the farming west and creating a spokesmanship for the internationalist-liberal uprising-of-a-sort out here.

His speaking style is not crisp. His comments are rarely unexpected. Consequently he has attracted little publicity attention, yet young people like his clean-cut appearance and he is greatly extending his following.

An able young reporter, who was closely associated with him for some weeks at the San Francisco conference, says Stassen there established an intimate respect from foreign delegates, particularly the Latins, who were not sympathetic to his purposes, but admired him.

College students particularly, I have found, are enthusiastic for him. I have heard an eminent young Republican express belief that he would be the next president "if" the Republicans are "smart enough" to nominate him.

The man in the street out here suspects he is angling toward the senate seat of Henrik Shipstead, who is up for re-election this year, and not exceptionally popular. Their theory is a senate seat would prepare the way for him to assert some national leadership.

His friends in Washington have doubted he would care to take the needless risk involved, and believe he could get further, working outside as Willkie did. I do not believe he will run.

His movement will be an increasing challenge to the top position of Governor Dewey. The New Yorker must survive re-election this year to maintain his power, and if popular men like Farley or Forrestal get into the race against him (Justice Jackson seems headed toward the chief justiceship rather than Albany at the moment) Dewey will have his troubles.

He has made no move since the national election to establish a personal national leadership, except organizationally in his loose personal control of national headquarters.

At any rate I do not find confirmed Republicans talking either Stassen or Dewey, as much as Bricker. The Ohio ex-governor has a strong personal following in the party. In a three-way Republican contest today, I believe he would win. A surge will come up for him if he wins the Ohio senatorship (Burton vacancy) in the Fall.

On the Democratic side, or inside, the current word is that Mr. Truman will not run, because neither he nor Mrs. Truman like the job. They say Byrnes is the likely man. I doubt both suggestions.

If Mr. Truman succeeds in staving off unpopularity through this crucial change-over period, he will like the job better. Few leave the White House willingly.

Furthermore, Mr. Byrnes as yet has not

DDT—Weapon for Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE discovery of DDT provided an extraordinarily powerful weapon for helping to get rid of certain types of insects. However, a great deal must still be learned before the full value of DDT in controlling insects can be determined.

The DDT acts on insects in two ways. When swallowed by the insect or when it comes in contact with the insect it acts on the nervous system to cause death. It must be remembered that although DDT can be handled safely it is, nevertheless, a toxic or poisonous material.

Poisonous to Humans
Poisoning of human beings may occur from swallowing the DDT or by absorbing a solution of it through the skin. Thus any person who uses DDT to any great extent should protect himself against it. If any of the oily solution of DDT gets on the skin, it should be immediately washed off, and those who use a great deal of the powder daily should wear a respirator or face mask.

DDT may be employed to get rid of many common household insect pests, such as house flies, cockroaches, silver fish and mosquitoes, as well as ants, bedbugs and fleas. Screens may be painted with the DDT oily solution to aid in fly and mosquito control. Floors and rugs may be sprayed to help control fleas. Spraying into cracks around the sink, refrigerator and cupboards will help get rid of cockroaches and ants.

Spraying the mattresses, especially the folds around the buttons, the springs, cracks in the floor and walls near the bed, will help to eliminate bedbugs and the spray may be used on clothing to get rid of moths. All food, dishes, toys, toothbrushes and any other article which may enter the mouth should be covered during the spraying. Tables or shelves which come in contact with the food should not be sprayed.

Many of the DDT solutions are combustible and hence all fires or flames should be extinguished before the spraying is carried out. When properly employed, DDT will be found a valuable agent in safely eliminating insect pests.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. D.: I have had an anal fissure for 15 years. Could you please tell me if this can be corrected by treatment or is an operation necessary?

Answer: An operation usually is required to get rid of an anal fissure.

A. J.: If a woman with neurosis were to become pregnant would it affect the child?

Answer: It is not likely that the neurosis would have any ill effect on the baby.

W. N.: I have two lumps about the size of a pea under my skin, under the shoulder, and one under the hip. Could these turn into cancer?

Answer: It is not likely that the spots you mention would develop into cancer. However, it would be a good plan to contact a skin specialist so that they may be removed if necessary.

STARS SAY—

For Sunday, January 13

SUNDAY'S horoscope definitely encourages the effort to advance the highest interests and to cultivate those in power and prestige, who will be found quite amenable to the tactful and delicate approach for favors, preferment and any sort of appeal. Those in church and state are ready to generously support practical propositions, earnestly and practically presented.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which honors, favors, promotion and preferment are forthcoming, with superiors, employees or those in high places ready to support. This applies to all serious and sturdy work that has been carefully formulated and skillfully worked out on practical and constructive ideas. Seek ambitions and aspirations in all available channels.

A child born on this day has high ambitions, with the practical ability, seriousness, ingenuity and skill to attain its most desired objectives, finding easy favor with those in high places.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

THE TROLLEY CAR, we hear, will soon disappear from the American scene. This is a shame because the trolley was the only American landmark that didn't stay in the same place.

Besides, the trolley gave generations of American boys their first ambition—that of becoming a motorman.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

THE HOUSEKEEPER, Mrs. Buxton, always retired to her room at the rear of the house at eight, unless there were guests expected. Mrs. Buxton had come with the house, which Walter had inherited at the death of his mother, and had her prerogatives. Looking through the lace-curtained triangle of thick glass in the oak front door, Victoria saw Bernice coming down the curved staircase which graced the large hall. She moved lightly for a tall woman growing heavy, and her hand slipped almost carelessly down the wide mahogany banister. She was wearing lounging pajamas of pale green satin.

Seeing her so, Victoria was reminded of something, she could not remember what. Something or someone infinitely familiar, as familiar as Bernice herself, of whom Bernice in that moment reminded her.

The oak door squeaked just a little on its hinges as it always did. It was a rich squeak, a permissible squeak, a squeak for which no apology had ever been made. Bernice's tiny voice welcomed Victoria warmly. But she herself did not look warm. She was paler than usual, and the icy color and texture of her garment made it seem as though Bernice should shiver as she spoke.

"Come up to my room," she said. The two women went up the thick carpet of the stairs in silence. Ever since the Stanley West episode, Bernice had believed that Mrs. Buxton listened behind doors.

Bernice's room was the dream room of an 18-year-old schoolgirl. Bernice was the only woman Victoria had ever known who actually possessed a white satin chaise longue.

Bernice curled herself into the chaise longue, Victoria took the softly floral slipper chair. She was aware for the first time of a strangeness between them. A direct approach to the matter of the destruction of the poison was for some reason impossible to her. She asked Bernice if there had been any word from Walter.

"I called him at the lodge this afternoon," said Bernice.

"Oh? Do you think that was wise?"

"I'm not a very patient person; I like to get things over with. 'Is everything all right?'"

"Everything's fine."

"I'm very glad, Bernice. Walter's really an awfully nice guy."

"You see," said Bernice, "I'm going to have a baby."

"Oh, I don't mean I AM having one. I mean I've decided to."

"It's something Walter's wanted for a long time."

Victoria was silent.

"I explained to him that I'd done a lot of thinking about the matter of Stan. I explained that I didn't admire the man at all, and so I couldn't really account for what had happened. I explained that I'd decided that this strange thing with Stan was really a hidden desire for a child taking that form—Stan IS a child, in many ways."

Bernice smoothed the arm of the chaise longue with one finger. She looked up at Victoria out of candid eyes. "And you know, Vicky, I'm sure what I told him is quite true."

Victoria could think of nothing at all to say. Over and over in her head a silly phrase kept singing itself: "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts."

"How has Stan taken your change of heart?"

"Nobly," said Bernice, with dryness. She giggled. "He has bravely given me up, because my happiness is so important to him. He will make his lonely way as best he can, smoking his pipe and wearing shirts open at the neck in even the coldest weather."

Victoria laughed with her. "Really," Bernice said, wiping the tears of her laughter from the corners of her eyes, "women are so strange. We do such strange things. I don't understand us at all. I don't understand myself. I . . ."

Victoria seized the lead this comment gave her. "I've been thinking much the same thing," she said. "Why in heaven's name did you talk Hazel into throwing out that ant powder?"

The soberness and stillness that came over Bernice was startling, after the relaxed way in which she had discussed two matters of such vital importance. "Oh! How did you find out about that?"

Victoria told her. "And then Hazel said that it had really been your idea."

Bernice said: "I was really beside myself that morning, Vicky. I mean, the day before all that mess with Walter, and then this terrible thing happening to you."

"For a person beside herself you managed to carry the thing off with quite a lot of dispatch."

"I felt that I had to, for your sake, Vicky."

"How for my sake?"

"Because I thought you'd used some of that poison to kill Albert."

Even though she had foreseen this possibility, the words shocked Victoria to the bone. She found herself on her feet. "This is incredible!" she said loudly.

Bernice was sitting stiffly against the small pillows now. "Is it? Think of the state I was in that morning. Think of what I'd just been through with Walter. Remember, I knew, Vicky, that you and Albert had eaten alone there the night before. Think of Sam. You remember that. You remember how you behaved over that silly little bottle thing. I thought of that actress. And there was Albert dead, and there was all that poison."

Victoria sat down and fumbled in her purse for a cigarette, which she lighted. Bernice waited until she'd taken a first puff, and then went on: "I mean, I don't think so now, Vicky. I've had time to cool down and think it over. But then, and for just a few minutes, I was certain that you'd learned something about Albert and this young actress, and that you just went berserk. I don't mean anything cold and calculated; that wouldn't be you, Vicky. I mean just dumping poison into something he would eat or drink the way a person pulls the trigger of a gun. And of course, in back of your mind would be the knowledge that the ant poison was deadly because of 'Ina Hart'."

"I'm very tired of that name," said Victoria.

Bernice jumped up from the chaise longue and came to Victoria's chair. She bent down beside it, dropped her arm over Victoria's shoulders. "You're not angry with me, are you?" she asked, imploringly.

"No," said Victoria slowly, not looking at her friend. "I'm just thinking how little we know each other, Bernice. She got up, roamed the room looking for a place to stab out her cigarette. Bernice came forward with a white china ash tray. Victoria extinguished the burning tip of her cigarette thoroughly. "You don't know me at all, and I'm afraid that I don't know you either."

"You know me like a book," said Bernice lightly. "You certainly proved that the other night."

Like a book. The phrase again stirred that odd sense of similarity in Victoria's brain. Something Bernice reminded her of.

"I want to use your phone," Victoria said, going toward the extension beside the chaise longue.

"Who are you calling?"

"The police, of course, Mr. Tuck."

"You mean to tell him about the ant powder?"

"Yes."

Bernice jerked a step forward. "Do you think that's the best thing to do?"

Recalling the dusty box of ant poison found in her den cupboard, Victoria said dryly: "Decidedly so."

Bernice took another step forward. "Vicky, I wouldn't call from here. I'm sure Mrs. Buxton listens on the downstairs phone."

Victoria put down the receiver. Bernice said: "It'll make me look a dreadful fool. Whatever shall I tell them when they come and ask me why I did it?"

"The truth," said Victoria, standing up. She suddenly wanted to get out of that large, frouned, satin room.

Bernice looked her shock. "Oh, no! That'll look so bad for you!"

Victoria was on the point of telling Bernice that nothing could look as bad for her as the absence of the poison had, but something stopped her. Again she was aware of that estrangement which now lay between them.

"I'll simply say I'm hysterical," said Bernice, "and wasn't really responsible."

ENVY THE KIBITZER

TRAVELING kibitzers—who go from table to table at a duplicate game to watch a peculiar deal—get a kind of entertainment not available to anyone else who ever visits a bridge contest. Such a fellow may have his own ideas about what is the best thing for each player to do when his turn arrives, but sometimes he can follow the circuit without finding anybody who seems to agree with him. Yes, if you like surprises, you should envy the duplicate kibitzer—or else become one.

There is the way the bidding went at the first three tables where this deal landed. The Table 1 declarer made his doubled 3-No Trumps, plus an extra trick, after a spade lead, principally due to his working on diamonds early. The Table 2 boy was set two because of a heart lead. Mr. Table 3 declarer in the East was set three tricks, seeking 4-Hearts.

At the remaining three tables the results were: 3-Diamonds bid by North after a takeout double by South, down one; 3-Clubs by West, down one, and—believe it or not—3-No Trumps by West, doubled and set three tricks.

Too bad there weren't some more tables, to see what they would produce. But the play couldn't be much funnier than at Table 1. The spade J went to the Q, the diamond K to the A, the club 8 to the 10, the spade 4 to the A, the heart 3 to the A, the diamond Q dropping the J, the diamond 2 to the 10 and two more diamonds, the spade 8 for the 9 finesse, the spade K, the club A and then the club Q given up to the K.

Your Week-End Question
Do you understand clearly why a sacrifice bid which gets doubled and set 500 points is profitable to prevent the opponents from making a vulnerable game and unprofitable to keep them from making a not-vulnerable game?

MAIL STILL IMPORTANT

There is a let-down in the official efforts to get mail to men in the occupation forces? There are too many instances of letters reaching this country from men abroad, particularly from members of the fleet in Japanese and Philippine waters stressing their lack of news from home. In one case recently reported, cables sent from Washington to an ensign "out there" apprising him of his father's critical illness took five weeks for delivery. Another boy, an eighteen-year old away from home for the first time—and very far away Guam seemed—sends pathetically homesick letters to his Illinois mother, who writes regularly, asking if she has forgotten him. "It is November," he says, "and I have had no word since July."

Mail was considered the first line of morale while the fighting was going on, and the government did a good job, for the most part, getting letters to the boys. It seems no less important now to speed the mail sacks to occupation forces who, too, want to know that all is well at home.

KURDS HEARD FROM

NOW it is the Kurds who are striving for local home rule. These turbulent tribesmen who inhabit the mountains of Iraq, as well as of Iran and Turkey, want a state of their own. For the time being they are willing to settle for local autonomy.

If the old saying is true that he who would rule should first learn to obey, the Kurds would never get self-government. Ever since the days of ancient Babylonia, they have raided their neighbors in the plains and refused to obey any outside government. Xenophon, the Greek historian, encountered them when he led a Greek army home from Babylonia after its regular generals had been killed in 401 B. C. He described them as lawless and dangerous to strangers, as they still are.

In Iraq the Kurds have proportional representation in parliament, two cabinet members, several provincial governors, and schools conducted in their own language. This seems pretty generous treatment. They may, however, get further concessions if they stir up enough trouble. Though Iraq suspects the hidden hand of Russia, Kurdish self-expression is natural enough without this explanation. It's getting to be a little too easy to blame everything on Russia. It may be well occasionally to dig a little deeper into causes.

It seems as if man himself is moving steadily toward a gadget era when everything will be automatic.

'ROUND CINCINNATI . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Out and about on another January morning of higher-than-average temperature, but still far from the 70 that is my favorite level. Scraped frost from the car that had been forgotten and stood out all night. An old razor blade kept in the glove compartment does a good job there. Puffed into town and then went about afoot. A score of cheery greetings here and there a comment on world or national conditions. Nothing particularly new or startling, just further proof of the fact that Americans these days are puzzled and more than a little worried. A few months ago we all worried about the atomic bomb. Now, it is forgotten and attention turns on reconversion delays and their consequences. Not since the days of Abraham Lincoln has this country been so much in need of masterful leadership or so devoid of it. Have you noticed how certainly that little word "if" appears in all forecasts? My solution is no dumber than that of our big names. It is to give Washington to the politicians of both parties if they will only turn the rest of the land back to the Americans.

Watch for this: the dropping of its appeal by the water company. Which means that the plant will be taken over by the city, maybe before mid-summer, and operated as a municipal utility.

His real name is William, but practically everyone calls him Bob. Few know the reason. He was known as Bill Murray when just a little fellow about 70 years ago. Then one day with a group of friends he taunted a drunk man whose first name was Robert and who was known as Bob. This Bob who could hardly walk turned on his tormentors, ran like a deer and caught young Bill. He really worked that kid over. Slapped him down, trampled and kicked him. Bill Murray did not get up, but "Bob" Murray did. His friends never let him forget the incident and from that day to this he is known by almost everyone as "Bob". That is really getting a nickname the hard way.

Out Berger hospital way the 40 hour week is no longer even a memory. The institution is overflowing, has been for some time. City ordinance provides for the employment of five registered nurses and a superintendent nurse. The hospital now has only a superintendent and one registered nurse, and that nurse is leaving January 15. The situation is little different than that in all other hospitals. The shortage of nurses everywhere is critical, but there is no shortage of sick folk. Nurses on the job work long and hard hours until they collapse. Nurses aides do what they can, but there is a limit to human endurance. Despite the disintegration of the Berger staff the hospital goes on through the days and nights serving men and women and children who must have the care only a hospital can give. It will continue doing so, but only at sacrifices too few persons can appreciate. But an SOS is being sounded by the institution and appealing eyes are turned on women with nurse training or experience, hoping that they will realize the emergency and will volunteer to render what relief it is within them to provide—A half day a week, a night or two or a day even now and then. Yes, the hospital needs help NOW, needs it more than ever before in its history. Help, please, if you are qualified.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 12—A sedate presidential boomlet of Harold Stassen is recognized as being under way.

The 38-year-old Navy commander is starting out upon the path which Willkie trod, appearing on the quiz program of all sages (information please), making speeches around the country to educational organizations, rug manufacturers, etc.

Plainly he is heading to fill the Willkie vacuum, in a manner, by establishing a Republican leadership of the farming west and creating a spokesmanship for the internationalist-liberal uprising-of-a-sort out here.

His speaking style is not crisp. His comments are rarely unexpected. Consequently he has attracted little publicity attention, yet young people like his clean-cut appearance and he is greatly extending his following.

An able young reporter, who was closely associated with him for some weeks at the San Francisco conference, says Stassen there established an intimate respect from foreign delegates, particularly the Latins, who were not sympathetic to his purposes, but admired him.

College students particularly, I have found, are enthusiastic for him. I have heard an eminent young Republican express belief that he would be the next president "if" the Republicans are "smart enough" to nominate him.

The man in the street out here suspects he is angling toward the senate seat of Henrik Shipstead, who is up for re-election this year, and not exceptionally popular. Their theory is a senate seat would prepare the way for him to assert some national leadership.

His friends in Washington have doubted he would care to take the needless risk involved, and believe he could get further, working outside as Willkie did. I do not believe he will run.

His movement will be an increasing challenge to the top position of Governor Dewey. The New Yorker must survive re-election this year to maintain his power, and if popular men like Farley or Forrester get into the race against him (Justice Jackson seems headed toward the chief justiceship rather than Albany at the moment) Dewey will have his troubles.

He has made no move since the national election to establish a personal national leadership, except organizationally in his loose personal control of national headquarters.

At any rate I do not find confirmed Republicans talking either Stassen or Dewey, as much as Bricker. The Ohio ex-governor has a strong personal following in the party. In a three-way Republican contest today, I believe he would win. A surge will come up for him if he wins the Ohio senatorship (Burton vacancy) in the Fall.

On the Democratic side, or inside, the current word is that Mr. Truman will not run, because neither he nor Mrs. Truman like the job. They say Byrnes is the likely man. I doubt both suggestions.

If Mr. Truman succeeds in staving off unpopularity through this crucial change-over period, he will like the job better. Few leave the White House willingly.

Furthermore, Mr. Byrnes as yet has not

DDT—Weapon for Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE discovery of DDT provided an extraordinarily powerful weapon for helping to get rid of certain types of insects. However, a great deal must still be learned before the full value of DDT in controlling insects can be determined.

The DDT acts on insects in two ways. When swallowed by the insect or when it comes in contact with the insect it acts on the nervous system to cause death. It must be remembered that although DDT can be handled safely it is, nevertheless, a toxic or poisonous material.

Poisonous to Humans

Poisoning of human beings may occur from swallowing the DDT or by absorbing a solution of it through the skin. Thus any person who uses DDT to any great extent should protect himself against it. If any of the oily solution of DDT gets on the skin, it should be immediately washed off, and those who use a great deal of the powder daily should wear a respirator or face mask.

DDT may be employed to get rid of many common household insects, such as house flies, cockroaches, silver fish and mosquitoes, as well as ants, bedbugs and fleas. Screens may be painted with the DDT oily solution to aid in fly and mosquito control. Floors and rugs may be sprayed to help control fleas. Spraying into cracks around the sink, refrigerator and cupboards will help get rid of cockroaches and ants. Spraying the mattresses, especially the folds around the buttons, the springs, cracks in the floor and walls near the bed, will help to eliminate bedbugs and the spray may be used on clothing to get rid of moths. All food, dishes, toys, toothbrushes and any other article which may enter the mouth should be covered during the spraying. Table or shelves which come in contact with the food should not be sprayed.

Many of the DDT solutions are combustible and hence all fires or flames should be extinguished before the spraying is carried out. When properly employed, DDT will be found a valuable agent in safely eliminating insect pests.

For Sunday, January 13

SUNDAY'S horoscope definitely encourages the effort to advance the highest interests and to cultivate those in power and prestige, who will be found quite amenable to the tactful and delicate approach for favors, preferment and any sort of appeal. Those in church and state are ready to generously support practical propositions, earnestly and practically presented.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which honors, favors, promotion and preferment are forthcoming, with superiors, employees or those in high places ready to support. This applies to all serious and sturdy work that has been carefully formulated and skillfully worked out on practical and constructive ideas. Seek ambitions and aspirations in all available channels.

A child born on this day has high ambitions, with the practical ability, seriousness, ingenuity and skill to attain its most desired objectives, finding easy favor with those in high places.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ENVY THE KIBBITZER

TRAVELING kibbitzers—who go from table to table at a duplicate game to watch a peculiar deal—get a kind of entertainment not available to anyone else who ever visits a bridge contest. Such a fellow may have his own ideas about what is the best thing for each player to do when his turn arrives, but sometimes he can follow a hand all the way around the circuit without finding anybody who seems to agree with him. Yes, if you like surprises, you should envy the duplicate kibbitzer—or else become one.

There is the way the bidding went at the first three tables where this deal landed. The Table 1 declarer made his doubled 3-No Trumps, plus an extra trick, after a spade lead, principally due to his working on diamonds early. The Table 2 boy was set two because of a heart lead. Mr. Table 3 declarer in the East was set three tricks, seeking 4-Hearts.

At the remaining three tables the results were: 3-Diamonds bid by North after a takeout double by South, down one; 3-Clubs by West, down one, and—believe it or not—3-No Trumps by West, doubled and set three tricks.

Too bad there weren't some more tables, to see what they would produce. But the play couldn't be much funnier than at Table 1. The spade J went to the Q, the diamond K to the A, the club 8 to the 10, the spade 4 to the A, the heart 3 to the A, the diamond Q dropping the J, the diamond 2 to the 10 and two more diamonds, the spade 8 for the 9, the spade 9, the club A and then the club Q given up to the K.

Your Week-End Question

Do you understand clearly why a sacrifice bid which gets doubled and set 500 points is profitable to prevent the opponents from making a vulnerable game and unprofitable to keep them from making a not-vulnerable game?

It was all told in a very amusing manner.

The committee in charge of the January meeting was Mrs. R. F. Lilly, Mrs. E. S. Roper, Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. E. E. Porter.

The Golden Text

The destruction of Pharaoh's host.

"The Lord is my helper; I will not fear."—Hebrews 13:6.

A People Delivered

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 13 is Exodus 6-18, the Memory Verse being Hebrews 13:6, "The Lord is my helper; I will not fear.")

MOSES' FIRST encounter with Pharaoh to get his permission to let the Hebrew people go ended in disaster. Pharaoh not only refused to liberate them, but he imposed more hardships upon them, so that they were worse off than ever. They complained bitterly to Moses, blaming him for their dilemma.

Discouraged, Moses went to the Lord and told Him he had failed, for not only had Pharaoh not let the people go, but he had added to their hardships. Then God said, "Now shall thou see what I will do to Pharaoh: for with a strong hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand shall I drive them out of his land."

He revealed how He would bring plagues on the Egyptians until Pharaoh would promise to liberate the Hebrews, and then would harden Pharaoh's heart and he would refuse again. Moses would be as a god to Pharaoh, said the Lord, and Aaron would be his prophet.

In this very long lesson, we cannot possibly touch on all the plagues with which the Egyptians were smitten, or how Pharaoh would give his consent to the Exodus and then change his mind. At the last Moses, under the Lord's guidance, told his people to be ready to leave. They were to kill lambs and hold a feast, taking some of the blood and smearing it on the lintels of their houses, for the last and most terrible plague of all was the death of the firstborn of each Egyptian. By the sign of blood on the doors the Hebrews dwelt within and that house would be passed over.

There Was a Great Cry When "there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house where there was not a dead," Pharaoh gave way and told the Israelites to "take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone, and bless me also."

So the Hebrews formed a great company and went from the land of Egypt into the wilderness, with the Lord guiding them. But even after this terrible calamity Pharaoh repented letting them go, and he sent his soldiers, horses and chariots to overtake and bring them back. The Israelites reached the shores of the Red sea and were terror stricken when they saw the Egyptians in pursuit. But the Lord told Moses to lift up his rod, and as he did so the waters of the sea divided, making a wall of water on each side of them with a dry path in the middle of the sea, and the children of Israel passed through it safely. When the Egyptians tried to follow them, the waters closed over them, drowning them all.

Then Moses and all his people sang and gave praises to the Lord for their deliverance, and Moses' sister, Miriam, the prophetess, took a timbrel in her hand and all the women did likewise, and followed her, and they danced and sang, "Sing ye to the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea."

People Chide Moses

Many hardships the children of Israel suffered as they wandered toward the land the Lord had promised them. The Lord had sent a pillar of cloud to lead them by day and a pillar of fire by night, but if they had no food or water, they grumbled and chided Moses for bringing them away from Egypt. Always, however, the Lord showed Moses a way to feed them.

"I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel," the Lord said; "speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread, and ye shall know that I am the Lord your God." And so it came to pass. Quails came up at night and covered the camp and they slew and ate, and in the morning the ground was covered with manna, which, said Moses, "is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

Then they were attacked by the Amalekites. These people were descended from Esau, and closely related to the Hebrews. Moses held up his hand, and when he did so, Amalek lost, but when his hand fell from weariness, Amalek won; so Aaron and Hur held up his hands one on either side, so the Israelites were victorious. Moses built an altar here and called the place Jehovah-nissi, for he said, "Because the Lord hath sworn that the Lord will have war with Amalek from generation to generation."

Here Jethro, his father-in-law, came, having heard of his success, and they had a reunion. With Jethro was Moses' wife, Zipporah, and his two sons. Jethro counseled Moses on how best to settle disputes among the people by appointing judges to hear their complaints and relieve him of the burden. So Moses took Jethro's advice and his father-in-law left and went back to his own land.

U. B. CRUSADE TO BE CONTINUED UNTIL FEB. 9

Included in the campaign is an educational evangelism program from January 6 to February 9. From Feb. 10 to February 16 special emphasis will be given to home visitation and invitation evangelism. Excerpt from Teachings of the Baha'i Faith

"In religion, as in science, truth reveals her mysteries only to the humble and reverent seeker, who is ready to lay aside every prejudice and superstition—to sell all that he had, in order that he may buy the 'one pearl of great price.' To understand the Baha'i Faith in its full significance, we must undertake its study in the spirit of sincere and selfless devotion to truth, persevering in the path of search and relying on divine guidance."

The destruction of Pharaoh's host.

"The Lord is my helper; I will not fear."—Hebrews 13:6.

A People Delivered

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 13 is Exodus 6-18, the Memory Verse being Hebrews 13:6. "The Lord is my helper; I will not fear.")

MOSES' FIRST encounter with Pharaoh to get his permission to let the Hebrew people go ended in disaster. Pharaoh not only refused to liberate them, but he imposed more hardships upon them, so that they were worse off than ever. They complained bitterly to Moses, blaming him for their dilemma.

Discouraged, Moses went to the Lord and told Him he had failed, for not only had Pharaoh not let the people go, but he had added to their hardships. Then God said, "Now shall thou see what I will do to Pharaoh: for with a strong hand shall I let them go, and with a strong hand shall he drive them out of his land."

He revealed how He would bring plagues on the Egyptians until Pharaoh would promise to liberate the Hebrews, and then would harden Pharaoh's heart and he would refuse again. Moses would be as a god to Pharaoh, said the Lord, and Aaron would be his prophet.

In this very long lesson, we cannot possibly touch on all the plagues with which the Egyptians were smitten, or how Pharaoh would give his consent to the Exodus and then change his mind. At the last Moses, under the Lord's guidance, told his people to be ready to leave. They were to kill lambs and hold a feast, taking some of the blood and smearing it on the lintels of their houses, for the last and most terrible plague of all was the death of the firstborn of each Egyptian. By the sign of blood on the doors the angel of death would know that a Hebrew dwelt within and that house would be passed over.

There Was a Great Cry
When "there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house where not one was dead," Pharaoh gave way and told the Israelites to "take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone, and bless me also."

So the Hebrews formed a great company and went from the land of Egypt into the wilderness, with the Lord guiding them. But even after this terrible calamity, Pharaoh repented letting them go, and he sent his soldiers, horses and chariots to overtake and bring them back. The Israelites reached the shores of the Red sea and were terror stricken when they saw the Egyptians in pursuit. But the Lord told Moses to lift up his rod, and as he did so the waters of the sea divided, making a wall of water on each side of them with a dry path in the middle of the sea, and the children of Israel passed through it safely. When the Egyptians tried to follow them, the waters closed over them, drowning them all.

Then Moses and all his people sang and gave praises to the Lord for their deliverance, and Moses' sister, Miriam, the prophetess, took a timbrel in her hand and all the women did likewise, and followed her, and they danced and sang, "Sing ye to the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath He thrown into the sea."

People Chide Moses

Many hardships the children of Israel suffered as they wandered toward the land the Lord had promised them. The Lord had sent a pillar of cloud to lead them by day and a pillar of fire by night, but if they had no food or water, they grumbled and chided Moses for bringing them away from Egypt. Always, however, the Lord showed Moses a way to feed them. "I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel," the Lord said, "speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread, and ye shall know that I am the Lord your God."

And so it came to pass. Quails came up at night and covered the camp and they slew and ate, and in the morning the ground was covered with manna, which, said Moses, "is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

Then they were attacked by the Amalekites. These people were descended from Esau, and closely related to the Hebrews. Moses held up his hand, and when he did so, Amalek lost, but when his hand fell from weariness, Amalek won; so Aaron and Hur held up his hands, one on either side, so the Israelites were victorious. Moses built an altar here and called the place Jehovahni, for he said, "Because the Lord hath sworn that the Lord will have war with Amalek from generation to generation."

U. B. CRUSADE TO BE CONTINUED UNTIL FEB. 9

The "Evangelistic Crusade" launched at the First United Brethren Church last Sunday received a most favorable and enthusiastic response by large congregations at both the morning and evening services.

This crusade was arranged by the committee on evangelism of the church and is being directed by the pastor, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson. Included in the campaign is an educational evangelism program from January 6 to February 9. From Feb. 10 to February 16 special emphasis will be given to home visitation and invitation evangelism. Beginning Sunday, February 17 and continuing for two weeks, a mass evangelistic effort will be in progress with services each night at the church at 7:30 o'clock.

Sunday the pastor will deliver a sermon on the theme:—"A Scriptural Program for a Successful Evangelistic Campaign in the Local Church." For this message the pastor has prepared a printed copy of a suggested scriptural program for a successful evangelistic campaign in the local church. Each worshipper will receive a copy of this program which will make it possible to follow the pastor's sermon very closely. A copy of this program will be distributed to all members of the church the coming week.

Included in this educational evangelism campaign is a reading course with a church-wide emphasis. Sunday, the first booklet for distribution will be Dr. E. Stanley Jones' work on "How Does God Guide Us?" Sufficient copies of this booklet are available for each church family.

The Junior Church will meet at 10:30 a. m. with a continued study of the book of Genesis in flannel-graph and a chemicolor lesson from II Kings 5:10 on the topic, "The Prophet's Perscription." At 7:30 p. m. the pastor will begin a series of sermons on modern characteristics of Bible characters. This first sermon will be on the theme:—"Modern Achahns," with a scriptural foundation in Joshua 7.

'THESE PERILOUS TIMES' WILL BE SERMON SUBJECT

"These Perilous Times" is to be the subject of the Rev. B. F. Borcoman at Calvary Evangelical church Sunday morning.

The Rev. Mr. Borcoman will base his message on the passage of scripture from Paul's writings in the book of Timothy II, chapter 3, beginning: "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come."

The pastor says "we are living in the perilous times of which St. Paul prophesied. He says the UNO, strikes and other news headlines all fit into the complex and startling pattern."

The Calvary choir will sing the anthem "Let the Earth Rejoice" by Fred B. Holton. C. O. Leist will sing an offertory solo.

Evening worship service begins at 7:30.

RINGGOLD U. B. CHURCH REVIVAL STARTS MONDAY

Excerpt from Teachings of the Baha'i Faith

"In religion, as in science, truth reveals her mysteries only to the humble and reverent seeker, who is ready to lay aside every prejudice and superstition—to sell all that he had, in order that he may buy the 'one pearl of great price.' To understand the Baha'i Faith in its full significance, we must undertake its study in the spirit of sincere and selfless devotion to truth, persevering in the path of search and relying on divine guidance."

CHS Tigers Score Win Over Hillsboro

NEWS Behind the NEWS

established any degree of popularity in the handling of foreign policy to warrant long range presidential expectations. True enough, he swerved policy in December to what the leftwing was demanding (fulfillment of Russian purposes) and thereby caused the Roosevelt-new-deal leftleaning group to cease its criticism of him- and the Communists their picketing of his state department.

But a lot of Democratic water will flow over dams and into rivulets, before its side of the picture becomes clarified.

Immediately ahead are the congressional elections and the administration got off to a bad start there. The Truman state-of-the-union speech, blaming his own congress for all domestic ills, was of the same technique as similar Roosevelt attacks upon his own party—but it was far different in effect.

With this same game, Mr. Roosevelt always repudiated but held the South; nearly always followed and approved the opposite group interests of CIO, leftwing labor and even Communists (for the fourth term at any rate) in the North. It was quite a trick, requiring an unusual personality to manage the riding securely of two horses going in opposite directions. Mr. Truman does not seem to have the personality for it. Also the nation is in new circumstances. The class warfare policies, spending and give-away programs of the depression era are not proving popular in an inflationary post-war period which calls for opposite tactics.

Even the Democratic congressmen repudiated by the White House frequently rode on the Roosevelt coat tails, or wanted to. BERT BELL IS New Holland Wins By One Point At Williamsport; Monroe Still Undeaten

Co-Owner Of Pittsburgh 11 Succeeds Elmer Layden As Pro Loop Boss

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Bert Bell, 52-year-old co-owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, inherited a $20,000-a-year headache today, succeeding Elmer Layden as commissioner of the National Professional Football league on the eve of a bitter battle for players and for fan support with the new All-America conference.

Layden resigned last night during an executive session of club owners in which he said he was relinquishing the post because of some "personal plans for the future."

The owners made it apparent that there was no serious friction which might have prompted the act by Layden when they offered him the same $20,000-a-year salary to remain with the league in an advisory capacity.

Although there was some opposition among the owners to Layden's regime, it was believed he had the necessary strength for reelection in which the vote of seven of the 10 clubs is required.

New Holland and Monroe remain undefeated in the Pickaway county basketball league, but New Holland had a scare Friday night at Williamsport before scoring a win in the last 15 seconds of play.

Williamsport led most of the way during the game, but New Holland rallied to score 17 points in the final quarter and win 30-29.

Monroe kept its record clean with a 52-20 victory over Walnut. In other league games Ashville trounced Perry, 58-32; Salt Creek downed Washington, 27-26 in an overtime.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

established any degree of popularity in the handling of foreign policy to warrant long range presidential expectations. True enough, he swerved policy in December to what the leftwing was demanding (fulfillment of Russian purposes) and thereby caused the Roosevelt-new deal leftleaning group to cease its criticism of him and the Communists their picketing of his state department.

But a lot of Democratic water will flow over dams and into rivulets, before its side of the picture becomes clarified.

Immediately ahead are the congressional elections and the administration got off to a bad start there. The Truman state-of-the-union speech, blaming his own congress for all domestic ills, was of the same technique as similar Roosevelt attacks upon his own party—but it was far different in effect.

With this same game, Mr. Roosevelt always repudiated but held the South; nearly always followed and approved the opposite group interests of CIO, leftwing labor and even Communists (for the fourth term at any rate) in the North. It was quite a trick, requiring an unusual personality to manage the riding securely of two horses going in opposite directions.

Mr. Truman does not seem to have the personality for it. Also the nation is in new circumstances. The class warfare policies, spending and give-away programs of the depression era are not proving popular in an inflationary post-war period which calls for opposite tactics.

Even the Democratic congressmen repudiated by the White House frequently rode on the Roosevelt coat tails, or wanted to. This year they may find they can do better with only a nominal bow to the Truman coat tails. They probably will run on their own, no mad clutching for White House tailing is visible yet.

Allen-Dinah Shore one-hour program, Gracie, pretending to be mad at Dinah, told Burns: "I'll tear that Southern Dialect into so many pieces that when people talk to her they'll HAVE to say 'You-all'."

Paul McGrath, Your Host of "Inner Sanctum," is actually one of the mildest mannered men you ever met. Paul's personal reaction to his "scare 'em" role is: "I feel like a choir boy with a slingshot."

First popularity ratings issued for the New Year get Phil Baker's "Take It Or Leave It" off to a flying start in duplicating last year's record of being the top quiz program on the air. Baker landed among the ten network evening commercial leaders and his show was the only quiz to be in that fast company.

One of those happenings that radio actors have nightmares about, but fortunately, rarely see happen, came about on Dinah Shore's recent "Open House" broadcast. Through a mishap, the program went on the air without a single script for the cast! Announcer Harry Von Zell did the introduction from memory, and Dinah went into her first song. As she was finishing the final bar, the script girl rushed in with the missing scripts, and Dinah and Harry were reading the opening lines before they got the pages out of the girl's hands.

A recent "Bandwagon" script had Star Cass Daley trying to find a good reducing diet and at least one listener took the gag seriously. This week the singing comedienne received in the fan mail an order for ten free reducing lessons from a Wilmington, California, chiropractor. Cass returned the letter with thanks, however, because she is a svelte 110 pounds and doesn't need to reduce.

Happy In Love

HEAD over heels and happy in love are Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton, co-starring in the new comedy-romance, "Too Young To Know," which arrives Sunday at the Grand, Dolores Moran, Rosemary De Camp and Harry Davenport are also featured in the film.

When The Ghost Walks

"MAN Alive," is the story of a widow (Ellen Drew, center), who is not a widow, and of a ghost (Pat O'Brien), who is not a ghost. It is all part of a hilarious sequence of mishaps and misunderstandings, many phony, as Minna Gombel (right) disgustedly registers. Pat O'Brien, Ellen Drew and Adolphe Menjou are co-starred, with Rudy Vallee as trouble-maker in an important featured role. On the same program featuring Robert "Buzzy" Henry star of "The Great Mike," Ralph Lewis, Sybil Merritt and "Ace" the wonder dog and star in "Sergeant Mike And My Pal Wolf," completes the double bill at the Clifton theatre Sunday and Monday.

PICKUP DATES FOR DRIVE SET

Old Clothing To Be Collected January 23 And 25; May Be Left At Armory

Pick-up dates for trucks to call for clothes for the Victory Clothing Collection in Pickaway county will be Wednesday, January 23, for Circleville and Friday, January 25, for rural areas, it was announced at the meeting of committee chairmen held in Betz's Friday.

Trucks will go from house to house, pick up clothes at collection centers in schools and from organizations January 23 in Circleville. Housewives are asked to have all clothes ready to be picked up by the Boy Scouts who will accompany the trucks on that date.

Clothes collected at schools and churches throughout the county will be picked up when the trucks make the rounds of rural areas on Friday, January 25. Clothes may be left at the schools or participating churches anytime between now and the pick-up date.

In Circleville, persons who wish to donate usable clothing for the war-stricken, may leave it at the Armory, where William Imier will be on duty constantly. The clothes may also be left at the city fire station.

Organizations wishing to aid in the clothing drive in any way should get in touch with Pat Taylor at the Circleville Herald—phone 581, or with Mr. Imier at the Armory—phone 930; so that trucks may be routed to pick up clothing collected and so that all work may be coordinated.

SOLON OPPOSES CUTTING LIST OF WITNESSES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart, R., Calif., today vigorously opposed any suggestion that the Pearl Harbor committee's witness list be cut to speed its inquiry.

Gearhart, a member of the committee, said it would have to go through virtually the complete list of about 60 witnesses "to get the facts" behind the Pacific naval disaster. So far, it has heard 13.

The committee comes back to work next week to hear the stories of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Gen. Walter C. Short, Army and Navy commanders at Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941.

Their testimony will take two weeks at least. The committee's investigating authority extends only until Feb. 15. It thus is in position of having to cram more than 40 witnesses into the first two weeks in February, cut its witness list—or ask congress for more time. It already has gotten one extra month.

Happy In Love

HEAD over heels and happy in love are Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton, co-starring in the new comedy-romance, "Too Young To Know," which arrives Sunday at the Grand. Dolores Moran, Rosemary De Camp and Harry Davenport are also featured in the film.

When The Ghost Walks

"MAN Alive," is the story of a widow (Ellen Drew, center), who is not a widow, and of a ghost (Pat O'Brien), who is not a ghost. It is all part of a hilarious sequence of mishaps and misunderstandings, many phony, as Minna Gombel (right) disgustingly registers. Pat O'Brien, Ellen Drew and Adolphe Menjou are co-starring, with Rudy Vallee as trouble-maker in an important featured role. On the same program featuring Robert "Buzzy" Henry star of "The Great Mike," Ralph Lewis, Sybil Merritt and "Ace" the wonder dog and star in "Sergeant Mike And My Pal Wolf," completes the double bill at the Cliftona theatre Sunday and Monday.

Old Clothing To Be Collected January 23 And 25; May Be Left At Armory

Pick-up dates for trucks to call for clothes for the Victory Clothing Collection in Pickaway county will be Wednesday, January 23, for Circleville and Friday, January 25, for rural areas, it was announced at the meeting of committee chairmen held in Betz's Friday.

Trucks will go from house to house, pick up clothes at collection centers in schools and from organizations January 23 in Circleville. Housewives are asked to have all clothes ready to be picked up by the Boy Scouts who will accompany the trucks on that date.

Clothes collected at schools and churches throughout the county will be picked up when the trucks make the rounds of rural areas on Friday, January 25. Clothes may be left at the schools or participating churches anytime between now and the pick-up date.

In Circleville, persons who wish to donate usable clothing for the war-stricken, may leave it at the Armory, where William Imier will be on duty constantly. The clothes may also be left at the city fire station.

Organizations wishing to aid in the clothing drive in any way should get in touch with Pat Taylor at the Circleville Herald—phone 581, or with Mr. Imier at the Armory—phone 930; so that trucks may be routed to pick up clothing collected and so that all work may be coordinated.

SOLOP OPPOSES CUTTING LIST OF WITNESSES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart, R., Calif., today vigorously opposed any suggestion that the Pearl Harbor committee's witness list be cut to speed its inquiry.

Gearhart, a member of the committee, said it would have to go through virtually the complete list of about 60 witnesses "to get the facts" behind the Pacific naval disaster. So far, it has heard 13.

The committee comes back to work next week to hear the stories of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Gen. Walter C. Short, Army and Navy commanders at Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941.

Their testimony will take two weeks at least. The committee's investigating authority extends only until Feb. 15. It thus is in position of having to cram more than 40 witnesses into the first two weeks in February, cut its witness list—or ask congress for more time. It already has gotten one extra month.
